In Memory of Jim Gebhardt

Jim Gebhardt was a passionate trap shooter whose life was deeply intertwined with the sport and its community. Summer evenings found him at the Capital City Gun Club, where he enjoyed camaraderie with friends and discovered tranquility in the rhythmic challenge of trap shooting. His enthusiasm extended far beyond personal enjoyment—Jim was committed to mentoring young shooters, helping them develop not only their skills but also their confidence.

When Jim's sons, Will and Jack first picked up the sport, Jim's competitive spirit flourished. Determined to keep up with their growing talent, he practiced diligently. The moments when they finally outshot him were met not with defeat, but with priceless pride—a testament to his supportive nature and the joy he found in their achievements.

In 2017, Jim's passion led him to become Head Coach for Bismarck High School through the Missouri River Clay Target League and North Dakota Clay Target League. His leadership and dedication left an indelible mark, inspiring countless young lives and fostering a love for trap shooting that would ripple through generations.

Beyond coaching, Jim served on the Capital City Gun Club Board of Directors for several years. He was a dedicated and hardworking member of the board, striving tirelessly to ensure the club operated in tip-top shape. His contributions played a pivotal role in the club's growth and success, reflecting his commitment to the community and the gun club that he cherished so deeply.

Jim's legacy lives on through the lives he touched, the skills he nurtured, and the smiles he sparked. He will forever be remembered as a skilled shooter, a devoted mentor, a loving husband and father, a steadfast friend, and a true pillar of the Capital City Gun Club.

Options Information

Memorial & Sharptail Shoots

25's Options: Total pot is equally divided among each of the 4 traps. Shooter with highest score on that trap wins 60% of the pot, runner-up receives 40%. If two or more shooters tie, all tied shooters divide 100% of the pot for that trap.

50's Options: Total pot is equally divided among three-50s: first and second traps, second and third traps, and third and fourth traps. Shooter with highest score on that 50 wins 50% of the pot, runner-up receives 30%, and the third place receives 20%. If two or more shooters tie, all tied shooters divide the relevant winnings.

Lewis Purse: Shooters are ordered from highest score to lowest score, then divided into thirds to form 3 classes (e.g., top third, middle third, bottom third). Total pot divided equally among the classes. Highest shooter in class wins pot, and tied shooters divide the pot.

Skins Game: Similar to 25's Option, but if shooters tie on traps 1–3, the share of the pot for that trap “pushes” to the next trap. If a tie occurs on trap 4, shooters divide.
